

BEHAVIOURAL UNDERPINNINGS OF VIOLENT ONLINE POLITICAL EXTREMISM

Vox-Pol Workshop
Ellington Hotel, Berlin
Tuesday 2nd December 2014

Amy Thornton
Research Associate
University College London, UK

Questions

LexisNexis

Publicly available data

1998-2014
Total: 200

Al-Qaeda-inspired terrorists convicted in the UK

1998-2014
Total: 23

Right-wing terrorists convicted in the UK

Dataset

How many individuals have conducted activity online?

Rank Order:
What do you see more?
What do you think is more important?

What kind of activities are they?

Are there differences between ideologies?

Be right wing...

And learn online...

Using websites...

And photos...

And preparing an attack

Right wing

Learn online:
78.3%

Communicate online:
47.8%

Be Al-Qaeda-Inspired...

And communicate online...

With non-radicals...

And other radicals...

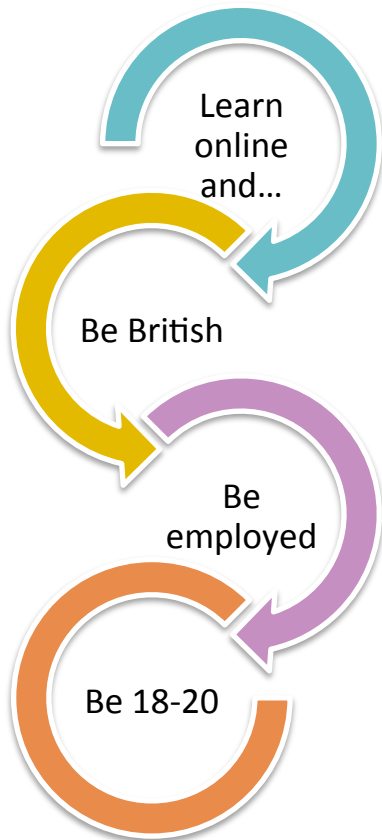

And disseminate propaganda

Al-Qaeda-inspired

Learn online:
51.5%

Communicate online:
27.5%

If they are part of a cell they are more likely to:

Are there differences between loners and cells?

If they are part of a cell they are more likely to:

If they are part of a network they are more likely to:

Are there differences between being part of a network?

If they are part of a network they are more likely to:

If they learn online they are more likely to:

4.5 times

- Attack a government target

5 times

- Try to recruit others

5.5 times

- Carry out an armed assault

All

- Use CBRN weapons

All

- Be killed

Are there differences between attack types?

If they communicate online they are more likely to:

1.8 times

- Use a bomb

1.9 times

- Be associated with a network

58.5 times

- Try to recruit others

If they communicate online they are less likely to:

0.25 times

- Target the military

None

- Use a knife

Communication

- Internet chat rooms including chatting on porn websites
- Emailing associates, discussing how to make detonators
- Used internet café in Slough

Learning

- Downloading instruction manual on how to make fertiliser bomb
- Purchasing clothes and camping equipment for training camps in Pakistan

Fertiliser bomb plot

Communication

- Only ringleader had online information
- AQ contact in Pakistan had info about potential attacks

Learning

- Hotel websites for target info
- Building surveillance of targets on computers, as well as attack methods and plans

Dirty bomb plot

Communication

- Created farewell video regarding impending attack
- Wanted to produce a website disseminating propaganda and radicalising materials

Learning

- Downloaded information about explosives and how to build bombs
- Listened to 'sermons of hatred'
- Watched videos of crimes against Muslims in Chechnya, Afganistan, and Iraq

July 7th bombings

Communication

- Much less reported activity – only 2 cell members had details

Learning

- Watched bomb making video
- Downloaded Bin Laden speech
- Read a letter on an Islamic website about an Iraqi woman who said she had been mistreated by her captors at the Abu Ghraib jail in Baghdad; it had further concentrated his mind on the need to take "positive action"

July 21st bomb plot

Communication

- Sent coded messages between cell members
- Wanted to make a documentary to post on YouTube about injustices against Muslims in Middle East also using their martyrdom videos

Learning

- BAA Heathrow website, used internet café to research flight timetables
- Researched how to make explosive devices using drinks bottles
- Got bomb making recipes online, looked up suppliers of hydrogen peroxide
- Researched how to dig a hole before burying chemical stash

Transatlantic liquid bomb plot

Communication

- Used jihadi forums and chatrooms as well as popular websites such as YouTube
- Hours of internet messenger transcripts
- Saved email in his drafts folder, giving his brother instructions on how to access it
- Skype chats for bomb-making skills

Learning

- Researched bomb making techniques, including how to set off a bomb with a mobile phone
- Circuits ordered online
- Name began to appear on blogs and websites which promoted violence against the West
- Speeches of Osama Bin Laden
- Jihadi literature
- 15,000 files of ideologically inflammatory materials

Glasgow Airport bombing

Learning

- Computer, phone and USB stick contained material on jihad and martyrdom,
- Watched speeches by Awlaki,
- Downloaded copy of inspire magazine

Lee Rigby killers

Communication

- Founders of the Aryan Strike Force, an online far right group
- Attempted to publish manuals about firearms and explosives on the internet to incite others to commit terrorism

Learning

- Copies of The Poor Man's James Bond and The Anarchist's Cookbook on computers at the home

Ian and Nicky
Davison

Communication

- Labelled two Liverpool mosques as 'targets' before making a string of YouTube posts threatening to blow them up

Learning

- Downloaded pictures of mosques near his home
- Drew up a shopping list of bomb components after months of internet research

Ian Forman

What do you know that I don't?

The limitations of open source data

Let's change it up:

From the convicted terrorist to the school playground

Some case studies

Online/ offline?

- Never been to a meeting – totally immersed in the far-right through online activity
- Communication, learning and sharing all done online

Physical spaces

- Can't publicly recruit for these organisations – all done online
- Few actual meeting places for far-right activity

Social networks

- Never met anyone face to face – all through relationships built in chatrooms

Radicalisation in the UK Right-Wing

- First contact with the ideology is not necessarily on the internet, but can be
- Maintaining interest and ideology on the internet
- FOSIS – where would you go if you had a question? The internet
- Internet allows interaction between males and females that wouldn't be allowed face-to-face
- Mutual radicalisation on online media – Facebook, Twitter, AskFM
- Talking to friends online as well as face-to-face – 'doubling effect'
- From the computer to the playground – watch at home, discuss at school
- Awlaki YouTube clips played on the bus to school
- Internet programmes specifically for conspiracy theories – children come into class and discuss them
- Individuals from abroad radicalising juveniles in the UK – Australia to London playground, then on to Syria
- Brother in Yemen teaching him over Skype

Radicalisation in the UK Al-Qaeda- inspired

Is this what you are seeing?

Is the UK a comparable example?

Are there differences between ideologies?